Introduction

Indian Institute Of Geomagnetism Research Scholarships are awarded by the Indian Institute Of Geomagnetism, an autonomous research organization under the Department of Science and Technology, Government of India. The institute established in 1971, situated in Mumbai and was earlier known as the Colaba-Alibag Observatories, part of the India Meteorological Department. The Indian Institute Of Geomagnetism fosters scientific pursuits in geomagnetism by conducting study and research in the fields of upper atmospheric geomagnetism and solid earth geomagnetism. With the adoption of sophisticated analysis techniques and use of fast computers, the Indian Institute Of Geomagnetism has acquired the status of a premier research organization of India, thus creating a common platform for scientists and scholars from all parts of the country for exchange of views and ideas. The Institute organises doctoral programs in Geomagnetism and allied fields, publishes scientific papers, bulletins and journals and organizes workshops, seminars and symposia to become a tool for effective diffusion of scientific knowledge.
